Switching on the Christmas lights at Pensarn roundabout

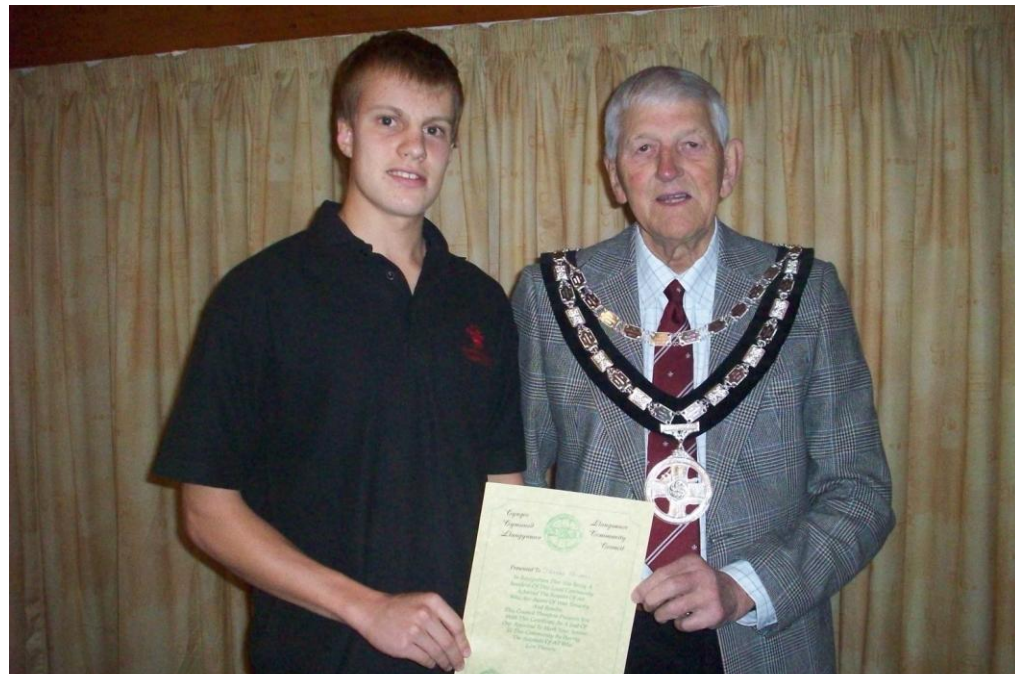

The lights on the Community Council Xmas tree will be switched on the 17th November at 6 o'clock.

Carols will be sung by pupils from Ysgol Llangynnwr. A warm welcome to all.

Harsh weather Forecast

The Met Office are predicting another harsh winter. At a recent meeting of the Community Council Cllr Elwyn Williams called for Llangynnwr residents to check their local salt/grit bins to see that they are full. Any bins that are empty should be reported to the community council who are organising a survey of the bins to check that everything will be ready for the winter. The clerk to the council can be e-mailed at:

Award for young athlete

Alun West, Chairman of Llangunnor Community Council presenting Steffan Williams with the Council's Achievement Certificate for his success at Water Polo. Over the past twelve months Steffan has captained the Wales Junior Water Polo Team, represented the Wales Senior Water Polo Team and been selected for the Great Britain Development Squad.

Chairman's wife saves child from drowning

Quick action by Ann West when on holiday in Tenerife saved the life of a youngster. The child who could not swim was playing by the edge of the pool. Seeing all the other children having fun the little boy jumped in, but being unable to swim the youngster was soon in trouble. The only adult to see his predicament was Ann who pulled him out of the water and avoided a tragedy.

2012 Parish Calendar

The finishing touches are being put to the Llangynnwr 2012 Community Calendar. The publication has pictures of places and personalities in the community along with a number of interesting historical images. Copies will be e-mailed to readers of Papur y Plwyf in December.

Bus shelter repainted

Damage reported in the last edition of Papur y Plwyf to a bus shelter in Llangynnwr has been repaired by the youth that vandalised it under supervision of the county Youth Offending team.

Community Welcome pack

At a recent meeting of Llangynnwr Community Council it was decided that the council will commission a pack to be given to people moving into the area. Councillor Geraint Bevan suggested that the pack should have information about the local school, places of worship and information about the history of Llangynnwr. A working party has been established to produce the pack.

Cattle Crossing Lights Call

Following a request to Cllr Sarah Howells to raise the issue of the cattle crossing in Login at a meeting of the community council the council has agreed to ask the county council to explore the possibility of putting a cattle crossing point by the old blacksmiths. About 300 cattle cross the road regularly and recently some drivers have attempted to drive through the cows as they cross the road.

Pupils Planting daffs

Green fingered pupils from Ysgol Llangynnwr helped the community council with their daffodil planting scheme recently planting over 200 bulbs.

Over the years the community council has planted thousands of daffodils on public land in the community.

Parents call for action

Parents of young children have asked the authorities to take action over dog fouling in the park. Since the park has gone back into the control of the county council the ban on dogs has been removed. Local policeman Mike Richardson has agreed to visit the park more frequently.

Speed humps for Babel Hill

As part of an on-going programme to improve safety on Babel Hill two new speed bumps are to be built on the road. One bump will be constructed close to Brithdir with the other hump being placed close to the chapel.

School Christmas Fair

Ysgol Llangynnwr will be holding its Christmas Fair on the 13th December in the school hall at six o'clock.

Local nurse plans charity bike ride

Breast Cancer Awareness

Next year Bethan Morgan from Pen-y-morfa lane will be undertaking a sponsored bike ride in India to raise money for breast cancer research.

A rare aerial photograph showing parts of Llangynnwr that have been redeveloped closed to Carmarthen bridge. This photograph shows the bailey bridge which many local people say was the last "gift" from George Thomas to Carmarthen town before the Labour Party lost power in 1970. The photograph was taken before the creamery, Dyfed Seeds, the Esso Petrol station and the railway bridge were demolished. So plenty of clues for local eagle eyed historians to decide when the photo was taken.
